Organize Poultry Association at Antioch

C. L. Kutil Elected to Head New Organization; to Hold Poultry Show

The Antioch Poultry Association is now a reality. A large group of poultrymen and farmers met Thursday of last week at Chinn's hall and after laying out plans for a poultry and egg show to be held this winter, decided to form an organization whereby the could more effectively put across any undertaking. Impetus was given to such an organization when the Antioch Business Club appointed a committee to see what could be done relative to the matter upon the request of one of its members. The new organization has a great future ahead, for the opportunities in poultry and egg production in this locality are great and the association expects to lend aid to anyone who aims to develop these opportunities.

C. L. Kutil, agriculture teacher, of the Antioch high school was elected president; Dr. Jensen, secretary and treasurer; and H. D. Minto, vice president.

A committee consisting of L. O. Bright, Dr. Jensen and H. D. Minto was appointed to draft a constitution for the association.

At a previous meeting C. L. Kutil was elected chairman of the Poultry show to be held in January. He appointed the following committees to work with him to make the First Annual Poultry show a success:

Committees on arrangements, decorations and special features are W. Westerfield, August Rentner, and W. J. Chinn; committee on publicity, J. Panowski, Alec Hughes and J. A. Woodhead; committee on awards, H. D. Minto, Mr. Duncan, Mr. Dixon; finance committee, Dr. Jensen, Bert Bown and L. O. Bright.

Membership dues are to be one dollar a year, and any poultryman, farmer or one interested in poultry development can become a member.

Thrift Habit Being Taught Grade Children

There is no better way of teaching thrift in the schools than to encourage the pupils to save something from their weekly incomes, and with this idea in mind, the Grade School has organized a school savings department.

Friday is banking day when the pupils deposit with their teachers their weekly savings. The money is sent to the bank where each child's savings is credited to his personal account and entered in his pass book which is returned to the teacher.

The boys and girls who have started accounts are anxious to save as much as they can before the close of the school term. Parents should encourage their children to start accounts if they have not already done so.

If a child has had an account for some time simply send his pass book to school and allow him to make his weekly deposits with his teacher.

Our aim is a savings account for every child.

AUCTIONEER TO HOLD SALE OF OWN GOODS

There is one man that believes auctioning goods is the best way of disposing of them, and he is no other than Auctioneer L. J. Slocum. For Mr. Slocum has announced that other duties have made it impossible for him to keep at farming and he will offer his personal property for sale the latter part of November, and will in all probability move from his farm in Wadsworth to Millburn where most of his time is occupied. The date of the sale has not been announced as yet.

MARGUERITE SAVAGE PASSED AWAY IN MONTANA

Word was received early Tuesday of the death of Miss Marguerite Savage, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Savage, formerly of Antioch, now of Somers, Montana, on Monday, October 27. Details of the death were not learned up to time of press. Miss Savage attended the high school here and was a member of the M. E. church.

Lee Savage is a brother of Austin and Mortimer Savage of Hickory and left Antioch about two years ago.

20 Years Ago in Antioch

Thursday, October 27, 1904

John Thayer is having his house painted.

Eldora Horton and wife drove to Libertyville Sunday.

Frank Haycock of Chicago visited home friends the first of the week.

Chase Webb was a Chicago passenger Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Morley are in attendance at the horse show in Chicago this week.

J. C. James has been confined to the house the past two weeks with an attack of rheumatism.

On Saturday, Oct. 29 the Antioch high school and the Genoa Junction football teams will play on the Axel Hanlan grounds.

In response to an invitation from the Odd Fellow lodge of Genoa Junction, about fifteen Odd Fellows from here drove to that place on Monday afternoon and were present at the initiation in the evening. All report having had a very nice time.

Horse racing on our main street is a dangerous thing, and we hope the city authorities will enforce the laws regarding it, as it is a menace to life and property.

Charley and Harry Smith, who for the past two weeks have been quite sick with typhoid fever are reported as getting along nicely although it will be some time before they will be able to be out again.

Powder Mill at Pleasant Prairie Has Explosion

One man, Harry Tinnerman, is dead, and his co-worker, Fritz Redland, is in a dying condition following an explosion in the coning mill of the Hercules Powder company at Pleasant Prairie, Wis., Monday at 11 o'clock. Property damaged will amount to about $15,000 according to officials of the plant at Kenosha.

The two men, one dead and the other unconscious since the explosion, were the only ones near the room where the explosion occurred and while nothing definite as to the cause of the blast can be determined, the company officials believed, the company officials believe that a fuse was accidentally ignited carrying the spark to the coning mill where the day's run of black powder was stored temporarily. The explosion wrecked the building and hollowed out a huge hole where the building once stood.

The Hercules plant at Pleasant Prairie is the same one that exploded in 1911 shattering windows, rocking houses and knocking down chimneys all over Antioch and even as severe as felt in Chicago and places more distant. The 1911 explosion was far more severe than today's and since that time the company has made all their stored goods safe.

FIRE DEPARTMENT MAKES TWO CALLS THIS WEEK

Two small fires caused the Volunteer fire department runs the early part of this week. On Tuesday morning at 10:30 a call was received from the Margaret Davis home on Johannott street. Dried grass and straw on the outside of the house became ignited and burned a small portion of the house, before it was discovered by neighbors. A "bucket brigade" composed of neighboring women had the blaze under control before the engine arrived.

Late Monday afternoon the fire department was called to the D. A. Williams home to extinguish a tree fire about 300 feet in the rear of their home. Flames were pouring out of a hole in the tree, about 15 feet from the ground. It is thought the blaze was started by boys trying to get a squirrel out of the trunk of the tree.

LODGE CONTEST WON BY MRS. HAYNES

The Royal Neighbors six weeks contest on attendance closed Tuesday night with the team headed by Mrs. Haynes as the winners. A very nice entertainment was enjoyed, after which refreshments were served. The hostesses were Mrs. J. C. James, chairman; Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. Henry Herman and Mrs. Emma Bartlett.

WOMAN'S CLUB URGES FULL VOTE OF WOMEN

The chairman of citizenship of the Woman's club, Mrs. John Woodhead urges every woman in Antioch to be ready to cast her ballot next Tuesday. Mrs. Woodhead will be at the Antioch News office next Saturday afternoon from 2 to 4 to explain the ballot to all who are in doubt as to how to vote.

DAYS WE WILL NEVER FORGET

$100,000,000 Bond Issue Figures Show no Direct Tax Need

There is a certain amount of apprehension among some people lest the passage of the $100,000,000 bond issue result in increased taxes. Undoubtedly, a vast majority of our people are heartily in favor of hard roads. The people of Illinois want the enlarged State road system the new bond issue will make possible, but some hesitate to favor the proposal, because their fear of a direct tax. However, a careful study of the method of financing proposed for the bond issue will allay any such fear and show that the auto license fees will pay off the principal and interest of all state highway bonds without one cent of direct tax being required.

The $100,000,000 bond issue law contains, just as the $60,000,000 bond issue law did, the provision that there shall be levied each year a direct annual tax to retro the principal and interest on the bonds, but that no such tax shall be levied for any year in which sufficient funds are available from the motor license fees to pay the principal and interest. The direct tax provision is required, under our constitution, in order to make the bonds salable, but such a tax can be levied only in the event that the motor license fees are not sufficient in any one year to make the principal and interest payments. Furthermore, the payment of the principal and interest on both bond issues becomes the first obligation against each year's license fee collections, and this feature as well as the law establishing the motor license fees, becomes irrevocable upon the adoption of the bond issue by the people. The problem then resolves itself into this question: Will the auto fees pay the principal and interest on the bonds?

When the new bond issue was first proposed, the State Division of Highways prepared careful estimates of the probable revenues from motor fees during the period the bonds would run. For the sake of safety, these estimates were made highly conservative, but they showed conclusively that the motor fees would be entirely adequate to meet principal and interest payments on both the old and the new bond issues and still leave a large annual surplus.

Since these estimates were prepared almost two years have elapsed, and the actual accomplishments during these years have greatly exceeded the estimates.

After estimating the revenues for future years, tables were prepared, showing the principal retirement and interest charges on both the $60,000,000 bond issue and the $100,000,000 bond issue. Comparing the payments for these purposes with the estimated motor fee revenue, it was found that there would be an annual surplus ranging from $3,000,000 to $11,000,000, which would be available for maintenance and other purposes.

It should be remembered that in estimating revenue, only motor license fee collections were considered. No account was taken of the Federal Aid allotments which will probably continue for a number of years to come. Illinois' allotments will probably amount to at least $2,500,000 per year, which will give a still greater margin of safety.

THE AVERAGE YEARLY PAYMENT OF PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ON THE $60,000,000 BOND ISSUE AND THE PROPOSED $100,000,000 BOND ISSUE AMOUNTS TO APPROXIMATELY $3,000,000. ILLINOIS COLLECTED THIS YEAR TO SEPTEMBER 20, $11,344,406.50 IN LICENSE FEES, OR OVER $3,000,000 MORE THAN ENOUGH TO MAKE THE AVERAGE YEARLY PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYMENT.

When the old $60,000,000 bond issue was before the people for ratification, the same question of the direct tax was raised. Our citizens have never paid a cent of direct tax on the old road bonds, and there is not the remotest possibility of their doing so. When the old bond issue was proposed, it was estimated that the maximum amount of fees which would ever be collected would be $6,000,000. In the first nine months of the present year, nearly double that amount was realized. During the year 1917 immediately prior to the adoption of the $60,000,000 bond issue, our license fees amounted to $1,587,772.69. In 1923, the year prior to the election on the proposed new bond issue, the collections were $9,630,367.77. In other words, we are about six times as able to pay now as then.

The person who does not own a car will not have to pay a cent towards the cost of the roads. The person who does own a car will more than make up the amount of his license fee by reduced driving expense due to improved roads. No direct tax will be required.

This great road proposition is up to the people for ratification at the coming election. To carry it, it must receive a majority of all votes cast at the election. In other words, failure to vote on the proposition is equivalent to voting against it. Therefore, each citizen owes his state intelligent consideration of and conscientious voting on this proposed bond issue, which is the greatest and most constructive measure ever submitted to the people. Should it carry, Illinois will continue to surpass all other states in hard road construction, and will, within the next few years, become the best paved state in the world.

Vote "YES" for "Good Roads" on the little ballot November 4th.

FIREMEN TO HOLD DANCE AT HAPPY LANG'S, PIKEVILLE

The annual Firemen's dance will be held on Friday evening, October 31, at Happy Lang's dance pavilion at Pikeville corners. Schmidt's orchestra will furnish the music, and the entire proceeds will be used for the benefit of the fire department.

What the Bond Issue Means to Antioch

The $100,000,000 bond issue being placed before the public at the election Tuesday should receive the vote of everyone in this district. Antioch Township alone will receive a half a million dollars in improvement. The bond issue provides for 9 miles of road on Hickory road and Lake street, 3 1/2 miles on the Fox Lake road from Lehmann's to Lake street and 1 1/2 on the road passing through Fox Lake and west of Grass Lake. Don't forget to vote for this issue.

Tuesday the people cast their vote for president for the next four years. At present the outlook looks like a close race between Coolidge and La Follette.

In Coolidge we have a man who is steady and conservative. In La Follette, the opposite. The question arises if the people want to step into the unknown with La Follette or keep an even keel with Coolidge. There is no telling where we will land with La Follette. With Coolidge "the silent" we have a man who thinks before he speaks. His unquestioned ability to defy political obscurity was proven when he outlasted the Boston police force that went on strike. His stand in the face of the greatest union state in the country against labor on the question of strike won Coolidge the everlasting gratitude of liberty loving people. He saw "no moral justification for any group of men to jeopardize the safety of their fellow men."

Governor Small will undoubtedly be re-elected in spite of all the Gold Coast dwellers and their "mouth pieces" can do to unseat him. Small's worst enemies are the rich. There must be a reason.

The propaganda being broadcasted against the $100,000,000 bond issue is against the dying wall of the "World's Noise." They can't defeat Small, so they're trying to lick his pet hobby—good roads.

Don't forget—the entire General Assembly had to pass this bond issue. And you can take it for granted that all counties are getting their share! On the whole it is nothing less than a common sense budget, ridding the treasury of a pot of gold for every one to try and get their fingers in.

The three representatives from this section look as if they might have a walk away with a possible injection of Thomas E. Graham on the finals.

One Man Dead, Others Injured at Grayslake

One man is dead and a boy is reported in a dying condition and three other men were injured seriously when a 7-passenger automobile blew a tire, causing the driver to lose control, the machine swerving off the road and striking a small culvert on Belvidere road about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, at the out skirts of Grayslake. All were Chicagoans. They were taken to Lake County General hospital.

Joseph Keller died at 10:30 a. m., Monday. The Zimmerglowski boy, whose brains were dashed out against the pavement as he was hurled from the machine, was operated on in an effort to save his life, but no hope was held out for his recovery.

Zimmerglowski was driving east on Belvidere road and had just rounded the curve west of the L. A. Williams garage at Grayslake. He was going down hill. A tire blew out, Zimmerglowski said, and he lost control of the machine, which swerved off the pavement to the right of the road, and struck a small culvert.

The machine turned over, but the occupants of the car were first hurled out of the car. The boy was hurled through the windshield, the glass scalping him. He struck the pavement head foremost, his skull being fractured in two places.

Two of the other men were lying on the pavement, unconscious, when soldiers, camped at Grayslake arrived on the scene some time later. They were members of the Reserve Corps, 14th Cavalry, Fort Sheridan, on practice march. The soldiers picked up the four men and started for the hospital in a truck, meeting the Wetzel and Peterson ambulance enroute and transferred them. The boy had been left because it was believed he was dead. When Dr. Struthers of Grayslake, arrived on the scene he saw the lad was still breathing so he took him to the county hospital in his auto.

H. S. Footballers Guest at Game Last Saturday

See Northwestern Defeat Michigan Aggies in Close Game

The football team of the Antioch high school attended the Northwestern-Michigan Aggie game at the purple field on Saturday afternoon. The boys were invited by the Athletic department of the Northwestern University.

The boys were gathered closely around Coach Watson, and received much valuable information as how the game is played by college boys, and no better game could have been chosen for the instruction of the Antioch players, for both teams played at their best and had to use plays of every description in an effort for victory. Many forward passes and long end runs for big gains were closely watched, as was the interference afforded the players carrying the ball.

Although the teams were somewhat evenly matched, the boys all agreed that Northwestern used the best plays and used them at the right time. Captain Wienecke's line of plunging was greatly admired as was the defensive work of Mathews and Cohen.

The players who made the trip were Captain Hook, Simpson, Morley, Enzinger, Schwenke, Burgess, Shunneson, Petzke, Craft, Hallwas, Hattendorf, Micheali, Bernalfo and Coach Watson and Principal L. O. Bright.

On Friday afternoon, October 31, Antioch high school will play the last home game of the season, meeting Warren high school for the second time this season. Antioch won a 12 to 0 game at Gurnee the opening game of the season. Let's get out and root for the boys on Friday and see how big a score we can make against the Warren team.

Last Friday afternoon Antioch defeated Allendale school in a practice game at the Antioch grid by a 19 to 0, score. The line plunging of Simpson was the outstanding feature of the practice tilt. Allendale, although considerably lighter than the Antioch boys, played an exceptionally good game during the first half, holding Antioch to one touchdown, but as the game prolonged the lighter team succumbed to the attack of the Antioch, who gathered two more scores and were on the verge of scoring again as the game ended.

John S. Smith Passes Away at Burlingotn

John Stewart Smith, born March 4, 1874, died at the Burlington Memorial hospital Oct. 26, 1924, aged 50 years, 7 months and 22 days.

His childhood days and early manhood was spent at home on the farm in Stark county, Ohio. In 1901 he came to Lake county, Ill., and located near Loon Lake. In 1921, Dec. 31st, he was married to Phebe Green Budd and since that time they have lived very happily in Loon Lake Park.

Besides his wife he leaves to mourn his loss a mother, Mrs. Amelia Smith of Massillon, Ohio; three brothers, Ben N. Smith of Teegarden, Ind.; Bert Smith of Massillon, Ohio, and Earl M. Smith of Navaree, Ohio.

Mr. Smith was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of Antioch, Ill., and like his father was of a quiet disposition and very willing to help the other fellow when in need. He was very well liked by everybody and now leaves a large number of loved one and friends.

Funeral services were held Monday, Oct. 27, at their home in Loon Lake Park, and the remains were taken to Massillon, Ohio, where interment took place Wednesday, Oct. 29, 1924.

WILL EXPLAIN VOTE

There are 670 names on the register in precinct one in Antioch township. If you live on the west side of the Antioch Lake Villa road you vote at this precinct, located in the office of J. C. James on Orchard street. Mr. James will be glad to help all those who would like information regarding this ballot.

And Now the Red Top One Man Post Driver

THE steel post has always been the cheapest post in fence line and now RED TOP cuts the cost of setting steel posts.

With the RED TOP Post Driver one man, without a helper, can set 200 to 300 RED TOP Posts per day. The driver works on the principle of a pile driver and sinks the post straight and solid. The operator simply raises and releases it; the driver does the heavy work.

Handy Fasteners Save Work Too

RED TOP Handy Fence Fasteners are another time and work saver. When using Handy Fasteners one man can attach the fencing to posts. A helper is not required to hold the fencing or feed staples. Except for stretching the fencing, fence building with RED TOP Double Strength Studded Tee Posts has become a one man job.

The Handy Fastener is put in place and the fencing held with one hand. A up of the hammer and the fastener is closed. The Handy Fastener has 100 per cent more holding power than the ordinary 1 1/2 inch staple clinched in a punched steel post and 267 per cent more holding power than the wire staple in a wood post.

Come in and see this new Post Driver. See how easy it works. See the Handy Fasteners, too, and our new stock of RED TOP Posts.

Helpful Hints About Electric Service

One way to reduce your light bill —

WHILE the slight increase that your electric light bill may show this month is due principally to the lengthened period of darkness at this season, you can save light by cleaning all the lamps (bulbs) in your house.

[Dust and Dirt on lamps, shades and reflectors absorb 40% of the light you pay for.]

Clean and polish lamps with a dry cloth. Wash glass shades in soap and water. Clean silk shades with the suction brush attachment on your vacuum cleaner.

Replace all burned out lamps with new ones. The Company furnishes 60-Watt Mazda lamps free for original installation or exchange. Other sizes at reduced prices.

DOG FILM PROVES GRIPPING DRAMA

Strongheart, the wonder dog, is scheduled for an appearance at the New Crystal theatre for two days, beginning Sunday and Monday in his latest First National picture, "The Love Master." It derives its title from the fact that in this play Strongheart selects his own master without regard to who has legal title to him.

The story is laid in the sparsely settled regions of Canada and centers about the mystery of the young man who has arrived with Strongheart and ends with the solution of the mystery and the love victory of the young belle of the settlement along with the boy from the States.

A dog race, filmed during the progress of a real one contested by the best dog teams in Canada for prizes offered by Laurence Trimble and Jane Murfin, producers of the picture, provides some real thrills. Strongheart's love idyll provides real comedy, and for sheer drama the fight waged by Strongheart against Death on behalf of his "love master" has seldom been equaled on the screen.

N. L. Jackson Seeks Votes In Antioch

N. L. Jackson of Belvidere, Boone County Candidate for Representative from this district, was in Antioch this week meeting the voters of this section and made this office a very pleasant call. Mr. Jackson comes from the small county of Boone and quite naturally needs the support of many from McHenry and Lake counties in order to nose out the Democratic candidate, Thomas Graham of Lake county.

Mr. Jackson told the editor of this paper that owing to a habit with so many of the voters in McHenry county plumping their three votes for one candidate that he was in danger of defeat by the Democrat while on the other hand if all gave him an equal vote in the three counties that the overwhelming Republican majority would return him an equally large vote with his other associates, Representative Weiss, of Lake County, and Representative Francis of McHenry county.

Mr. Jackson impressed those whom he met as being a sound business man of mature judgment and one who is capable to represent the people at Springfield.

The following editorial taken from the Belvidere newspaper tells something of Mr. Jackson and his qualifications:

N. L. Jackson is the only Boone county citizen asking for office in this legislative district. He is the man selected by Boone county for a place in the state legislature, and the people of Boone county believe that they are justly and by right entitled to representation, that one of the four places in the state legislature should of right go to Boone county. A large number of McHenry and Lake county voters have in the past believed the same way, and have generously helped to include a Boone county man among the four men sent to Springfield from this district. Boone county, which for many terms was without representation at Springfield, asks the voters of McHenry and Lake counties for such a part of their support as will not endanger the Republican candidates from their own counties, there being enough votes in McHenry and Lake to give generous support to Jackson and save him from defeat by the Democratic candidate.

The Republican ticket is splendidly well balanced, with Chas. H. Francis, lawyer, William Weiss, lawyer and N. L. Jackson, business man. Mr. Jackson lived in McHenry county about twenty years before removing to Belvidere, and has paid taxes in McHenry county for forty years.

Noyes L. Jackson came west from the New England states, a boy without means, worked on a farm, went into the milk and butter business, then into the grocery business, and is now in charge of the Illinois Mutual Fire Underwriters. He knows the problems of the working man, the farmer, the small business man, and has had a wide experience in life. He has never been a politician; he has always taken an active interest in political matters, but has never before sought office. He is honest, capable, deserving and competent. No more than that need be said.

Enormous Ballot to Greet People Nov. 4th

When Antioch people go to the polls on November 4 to indicate their choice for the various political offices to be filled, they will be confronted with a ballot half as large as a good sized horse blanket, besides several small ballots. To unfold and refold the huge ballot in a voting booth is going to be a problem from present indication.

The biggest ballot, not in point of the number of votes cast, but in the actual size of the ballot, is destined to keep the election clerks busy in the November election this fall as the ballot the first one which was sent to County Clerk Lew A. Hendee last Thursday measures 31 by 36 inches, or nearly 3 feet square and contains the name of 10 political parties with the possibility that 53 names will be printed under each of the party names.

The parties listed in this election some of them never heard of before, are as follows: Republican, with 53 candidates to be voted on; Democratic, Socialist, Progressive Socialist Labor Workers Party of America, Commonwealth Land Party, Prohibition, Independent Republican and the Limit Land Manipulations and Rent Party.

The ballot already has the clerks worried as to how it will be handled and now that the ballots have reached Lake county, those seeking election on the county tickets, must be added to the already overflowing ballot.

Those waiting for election returns are advised to bring their beds and stay all night because it will take many hours to count the votes.

Besides having to indicate their choice of several score candidates on a dozen different tickets, Illinois citizens when they go to the polls November 4 will have five legislative proposals to vote upon.

The one of these which is drawing the most attention is Senate Bill 376, which provides for the issuance and sale of $100,000,000 of state bonds for the retirement of the bonds and the payment of the interest on them out of license fees paid to the secretary of state by automobile owners. Politicians believe this proposal will carry by a heavy majority as it has received endorsement by both Republican and Democratic parties.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 1, another of the five proposals, provides for what is known as the "Gateway Amendment," whereby the legislature will be allowed to submit two amendments to the state constitution at any general election. Heretofore only one amendment could be proposed and submitted at the election.

Senate Bill 509 provides that the Department of Public Works and Buildings is authorized to lease any or all of the Illinois and Michigan Canal and its right of way to produce revenue for the state.

In order to make these three propositions effective they must each receive a majority of all votes cast in the election. A person not voting on the propositions is therefore actually voting "No."

The other two legislative proposals deal with state banking laws.

Senate Bill 549 amends the state banking act so as to require from five to twenty-five persons to make application to organize a bank, the exact number depending upon the size of the city or town in which the bank proposes to operate. It also requires that every subscriber to the capital stock of the new bank must sign an affidavit that he is the owner of unencumbered property at least of equal value to the par amount of the new bank stock to which he has subscribed, and fixes the minimum capital requirements for banks at $25,000 instead of $10,000.

House Bill 516 also amends the banking act by providing that no bank can maintain a branch office or branch bank.

State of Illinois, County of Lake, ss. Circuit Court of Lake County December term A. D. 1924. Nevada C. Puro, vs. Frank Puro, In Chancery No. 14616.

The requisite affidavit having been filed in the office of the clerk of said court.

Notice is therefore hereby given to the said defendant, Frank Puro, that the above named Complainant heretofore filed her Bill of Complaint in said Court on the Chancery side thereof, and that a summons thereupon issued out of said Court against the above named defendant, returnable on the first day of the term of the Circuit Court of Lake County, to be held at the Court House in Waukegan in said Lake County, on the First Monday of December A. D. 1924, as is by law required, and which suit is still pending.

MARGARET HOCKNEY AND ROY HOLLISTER WED AT SHARON

The following article taken from the Delevan, Wis., Republican of Thursday, Oct. 2, will be of interest to many of our readers as the bride is very well known here, having lived here with her parents several years.

A charming wedding took place on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the English Lutheran church in Sharon, when Mrs. Margaret J. Hockney, daughter of J. H. Goodrich, became the bride of Roy E. Hollister, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hollister. The Rev. Lebbins Woods performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Eleanor Shager, who attended the bride, and Edward Mead, groomsmen, were the only attendants. The wedding was very quiet because of the recent death of the bride's mother.

Following the ceremony the couple left for Delavan lake, where they will spend their honeymoon at Willow Point at the country home of the groom. They will be at home to their friends after Oct. 6, at 116 South Fourth street.

Delevan Woman Wins Prize in Ballroom Name

Announcement has been made of the sale by Henry P. Lundskow of his radiocasting station on the Burlington road to S. P. Miller, manager and operator of the new ballroom on the Geneva road located a half mile east of New Munster. The consideration named in the transfer was not made known. While no definite plans have been announced from either source, it is expected that Miller will erect the new broadcasting station on the roof of his ballroom and will radiocast programs from there.

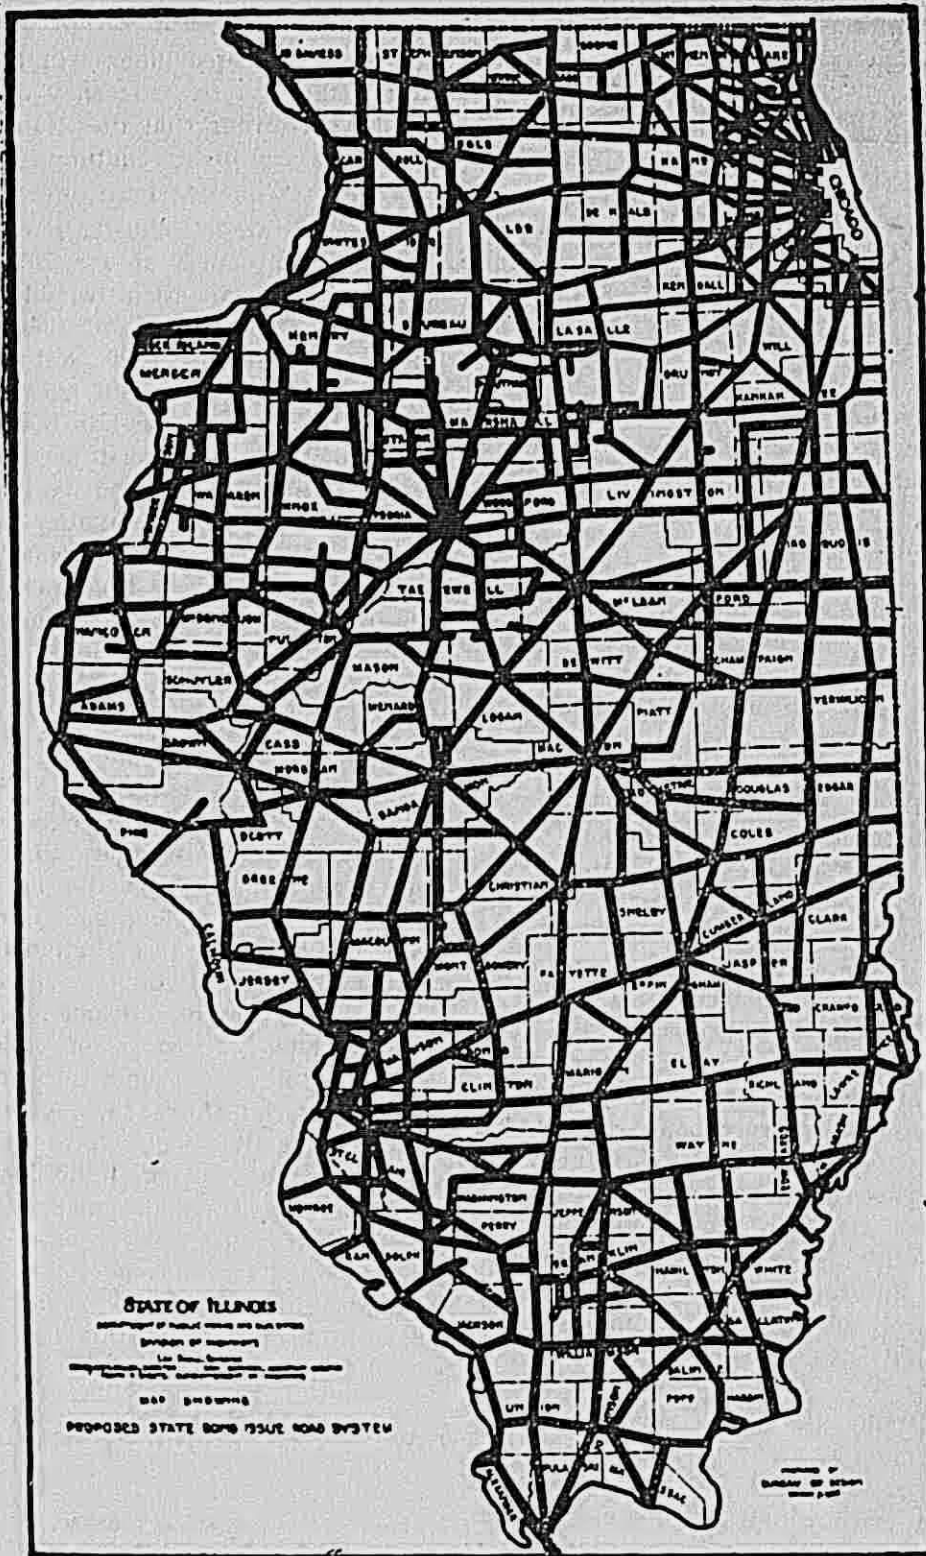

In the meantime S. P. Miller is laying plans for the erection of the towers and other apparatus on the roof of the ballroom on the Geneva road at Fox River. It is planned to broadcast for the present the regular Tuesday and Friday evening dance programs from there, with many interspersions and variations of other entertainment. Miller also plans to secure some of the entertainers from the larger broadcasting stations nearby, and he hopes to make his program gain some of the popularity of his predecessor.

The name was selected Friday evening for the one hundred dollar contest ($100.00). It was "The Fox River Winter Gardens." Which was picked as the appropriate name for the New Ballroom. Mrs. W. Sullivan from the Innovation Restaurant at Delavan, Wisconsin, won the ($100) prize.

The judges were, Robert James Matheson of Rochester, Wis., Martin Schenning and Erving Haliday of Salem, Wis., Ralph Barber of Silver Lake, Wis., George Orvis and a dancing master of Kenosha, Wis.

In all there were over one thousand entries in the contest. Sixteen names, one for each day of the contest lasted were selected. The following were the sixteen, The Blue Moon by Nellie Vos of Antioch, Ill.

The Fox River Winter Gardens by Mrs. Sullivan of Delavan, Wis., Winter Terrace Gardens by Miss Martha Kysick of Milwaukee, Wis., The Riviera by Miss Alice Ziebell, Harwood's Paradise by Robert Strohm, The Fox River Play House by Wm. J. Hofner, Dreamland by Ann McCarthy all of Burlington, Wis., Midway Garden by Fred Albrecht of Wilmot, Wis., Winter Paradise Gardens by Mrs. H. # Thos. E. Graham Endorsed

The following communication is in reply to a letter written by the Vice Adjutant of the Grayslake American Legion Post.

It is self explanatory and indicates the esteem in which Thomas E. Graham, candidate for the general assembly, is held:

Mr. Guy W. Thomas,
Grayslake, Ill.

My dear Mr. Thomas:

I am in receipt of your letter of recent date asking me for information regarding Thomas E. Graham, who is a candidate for representative in the General Assembly from the 8th Senatorial District.

It has been my pleasure to serve with Mr. Graham in the 48th, 49th, 50th and 51st sessions. Mr. Graham was a hard working conscientious member. He was always in attendance and the house journal will show that he voted on all important questions. During the war Mr. Graham was energetic in support of all measures that were beneficial to the soldiers. During his membership in the House he has favored all progressive legislation and worked and voted against appropriations which would unnecessarily increase the tax burdens.

I have no hesitancy in recommending Mr. Graham on his record as shown by four terms in the Legislature and to say that he deserves re-election.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN P. DEVINE,
Minority Leader.

Game & Fish News

C. F. Mansfield Jr.
Secretary of the Federated Sportsmen of Illinois

Sportsmen who fail to vote on November 4th for men who stand for conservation are poor sportsmen, according to H. C. Norcross, of Carlyle, president of the Illinois Sportsmen's League.

Two years ago a state wide program of conservation of all wild life was outlined by the organized sportsmen and an excellent start in accomplishing it was made by the last legislature. We are now seeing the benefits of the excellent legislation made possible through the earnest cooperation of most of the members of the 53rd General Assembly. More than 50,000 eggs and adult game birds and almost 100 carloads of fish have been distributed, four fish hatcheries are in process of construction and Wm. J. Stratton, Chief Game and Fish Warden, today announced the purchase of ground for another hatchery at Peoria and a game refuge near Oquawka.

This is merely a start and the sportsmen expect to see with the next legislature the program rounded out, ample protection provided their interests, game refuges, public shooting and fishing grounds and additional fish hatcheries and fish ponds.

Without state and county officials and members of the legislature and senate, who are earnestly in sympathy with constructive conservation all that we have gained in the past two years will be lost. It is the duty of every sportsman and conservationist to be informed of the attitude of candidates for office and then to go to the polls November 4 and vote for those who will carry on this great work of conservation of wild life for the future generations as well as for the present.

In two of our neighboring states excellent wardens have been removed to make way for inexperienced political favorites and conservation has received a setback from which it will take years to recover.

Only by concerted action can the sportsmen of Illinois avoid the disastrous results which have followed the failure of sportsmen in these and other states to support candidates who put efficiency service ahead of political expediency.

The State of Illinois has taken preliminary steps for the purchase of Cahokia Mound and some of its neighboring mounds located in Madison and St. Clair Counties, 6 miles east of St. Louis, for the purchase of which the 53rd General Assembly voted an appropriation.

Colonel C. R. Miller, Director, Department of Public Works and Buildings, visited these mounds on Tuesday, October 21st, accompanied by Dr. Otto L. Schmidt, President, Illinois State Historical Society, Chicago, Dr. John F. Ryan, Pontiac, Director, Illinois State Historical Society, Mr. A. E. Campbell, Assistant Attorney General, Representative Thomas L. Kekete, East St. Louis, Mr. A. T. Spivey, Editor, East St. Louis Journal, East St. Louis, Mr. D. O. Thomas, County Highway Engineer, Belleville, and Mr. C. M. Slaymaker, District Highway Engineer, East St. Louis.

Colonel Miller has made the announcement that after Mr. Thomas and Mr. Slaymaker have jointly made a survey of the land selected to ascertain the exact acreage a reasonable offer will be made by the Department to the owners for the purchase. If the offer is not accepted condemnation proceedings will be instituted through the Attorney General's office in order that the State can secure the land on an equitable basis.

Colonel Miller further stated that should the State be able to purchase part of this property at a reasonable figure, this transaction would preserve for the world one of the most important pieces of work left by a pre-historic race on the American continent. Monks Mound is the largest pre-historic artificial earthwork in the United States and is to the Mound-Builders whose history antedates that of the Indians what the Great Pyramids were to the Pharaohs of Egypt. The dimensions of Monks Mound are as follows: The base north and south, 998 feet; east and west, 721 feet; height 99 feet.

The age of these mounds is a matter of conjecture only. They were covered with heavy forest trees when the first white men came 250 years ago. Articles found in the mounds by Dr. Warren R. Moorhead a member of the U. S. Board of Indian Commission, show that they were built by a race of people who had reached a rather advanced stage of civilization whose numbers must have been counted by the thousand. It is estimated that it would have taken 1,000 men five years to build Monks Mound alone. Only the mounds remain to mark the activity of a vanished race. Only such action as the State of Illinois is taking could prevent the destruction of this heritage from the past.

Hints for the Household

HOUSECLEANING

Housecleaning is not what it used to be. It is not a thing one has to run from or dread. With our new electrical improvements and the vogue of eliminating non-essentials, has come the period of almost constant cleanliness. Of course, to be really clean our homes must "have a bath," so to speak, at least once, and sometimes twice a year. November is a good month for this and leaves one fresh to enjoy the holidays and the winter months. Some good rules to follow are:

1. Begin with closets and drawers. This includes pantries. How to clean closets: (a) Hang heavy clothes and furs outdoors. (b) Send soiled clothes to cleaners. (c) Give away to needy anything you will not be able to use and which will always be in the way. Better some good than no good. (d) Wash woodwork, floors and drawers. (e) Paint woodwork, drawers and cracks in floors with turpentine. Use a regular paint brush for. This leaves a closet absolutely clean and free from any insects.
2. Clean rooms, least used, first, so that it will not be necessary to trawl through them with dirt from other rooms.
3. Plan ahead for cleaning and have plenty of rags, polishes and soaps on hand.
4. Do one or two rooms at a time where possible, to avoid overtiredness and making the whole family uncomfortable.

5. It is well to re-arrange some. Add a few of the latest touches either in drapes, furniture or bric-a-brac. Put away or give away useless things, so when through the rooms will breathe of hominess, cleanliness and good looks.

6. Try and avoid a cluttered appearance. Too much bric-a-brac means endless dusting and needless homely furniture detracts. Do not save to the point of having your things a burden to you.

HOT WATER PIE CRUST

Everything ice cold has always been the best rule for pie crust. But many are the housewives who much prefer this hot water recipe.

3 cups of flour.
3 teaspoons of baking powder.
A little salt.
1 cup of lard.
½ cup of boiling water.
Method: Mix the dry ingredients. Work in the lard. Pour on hot water quickly. When cool enough to handle, knead and roll out. Use at once. This makes enough crust for two large pies.

FRIED RICE

1 large cup boiled rice.
2 or 3 slices of bacon.
½ an onion.
2 eggs.
Method: Dice bacon and fry—add onion and fry brown. Add rice—then push all to one side of pan. Beat eggs well and fry in same pan. Then scramble all the ingredients together. Add salt and a little pepper. Serve immediately.

UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

3 eggs.

3 tablespoons of melted butter.
5 slices of canned pineapple (cut in pieces.)

Method: Beat the yolk of eggs; add sugar, vanilla, salt and flour to which baking powder has been added. Then: Put in an iron frying pan, the sugar, butter and pineapple, mix well.

Then pour sponge cake batter over sugar mixture and put pan in moderate oven to bake. When done, turn out on a pretty platter. Serve with whipped cream. It will be a delicious cake with a maple frosting already on it.

Illinois Voters

GOOD CITIZENS VOTE. Those who neglect to vote are not so good; they shirk their responsibility. As an obligation of citizenship, every man and woman of lawful age should cast a ballot Tuesday, November 4.

Men and women who know American institutions vote for a party, and not for individuals. In America the party governs. For sixty-eight years either the Republican party or the Democratic party has been in power at Washington and at Springfield. Either the Republican party or the Democratic party will be in authority at Washington and at Springfield for the coming four years. Upon the party records, as written into the history of America, the Republican party organization believes voters of Illinois should

Mark a Cross in the Republican Circle

Republican party candidates were chosen by the voters of their party; the party is responsible for their selection; they are responsible to the party as well as to the public.

Calvin Coolidge for President, was the overwhelming choice of the Republican National Convention at Cleveland. For his steadfast adherence to national traditions, his sturdy honesty and executive genius, he has the confidence of the American people.

Charles S. Deneen for United States Senator, was nominated in a direct primary by the Republican voters of Illinois. His record as Governor for eight years and as States Attorney of Cook County for eight years is a part of the history of the state's progress to greatness; his accomplishments in office are the boasts of Illinoisans as citizens.

Len Small for Governor, was renominated by a majority vote of the Republican men and women of Illinois. The building of 4,600 miles of paved road in four years without cost in direct taxes; the reduction of rates to utility patrons of $25,000,000 per year, with improved service; the reduction of the death rate in Illinois from 13.6 to 11.4 per thousand; the reduction of the tax rate from 47.5 cents to 43.3 cents in the $100 are historical accomplishments of his administration.

Taxes will be of utmost importance for the next four years. At Washington, following a Democratic administration, a Republican administration has cut the income-tax $1,380,000,000 per year. At Springfield a—

Democratic administration after four years of an average tax rate of 63.25 cents in the $100, $528.82 left a balance in the general fund of

Republican administrations in seven years (including the war period), have had an average tax rate of 53.38 cents in the $100, and on October 1, 1924, there was in the general $11,557,729.54 fund

To back Coolidge with Deneen in the Senate and a Republican majority in the House; to back Small with administration officials committed to Republican policies and a Republican Legislature; for lower taxes, more good roads, better and cheaper utility service and efficient administration: Vote. And because the straight ballot is the easy ballot and is always counted,

CHAPTER VII

Partners

From without came the low murmur of men's voices. Judith laid her book aside and drew her rifle across her knees, her eyes bright and eager. At infrequent intervals for perhaps three or four minutes the two voices came indistinctly to those in the cabin. Then silence for as long a time. And then a voice again, this time quite near the door, calling out clearly:

"Hey, you in there! Pitch the money out the window and we'll let you go."

"There's a voice," said Judith quietly, "to remember! I'll be able to swear to it in court."

Certainly a voice to remember, just as one remembers an unusual face for years, though it be but a chance one seen in a crowd. A voice markedly individual, not merely because it was somewhat high-pitched for a man's, but rather for a quality not easily defined, which gave to it a certain vibrant, unpleasant harshness, as though metallic almost, rasping, as though with the hiss of steel surfaces rubbing. Altogether impossible to describe adequately, yet, as Judith said, not to be forgotten.

Lee turned triumphantly to the girl. "I've got his tag!" he whispered to her. "I played poker with that voice one night not four months ago in Rocky Bend!"

"Who is he?" Judith whispered back. "With Crowdy down, if we know who one of these men is, the rest will be easy. Who is he?"

"A bad egg," Lee told her gravely. "He's done time in the state pen. He's been out less than a year. Gunman, stickup man, convicted once already for manslaughter..."

"Not Chris Quinlan, Bud Lee!" she cried excitedly. "Not Chris Quinlan!"

"Sh!" he commanded softly. "There's no use tipping our hand off to him. Yes; it's crooked Chris Quinlan. You don't know him, do you?"

He had never seen her eyes look as they looked now. They were as hard and bright as steel; no true woman's eyes, he thought swiftly. Rather the eyes of a man with murder in his heart.

"Then, thank God!" whispered Judith, her voice tense. "Can you keep a secret with me, Bud Lee? Were it not for the man calling to us now, Luke Sanford would be here in our stead. Crooked Chris Quinlan served his time in San Quentin because my father sent him there. And he had not been free six months before he kept his oath and murdered my poor old dad!"

"Well?" came the interrupting snarl of Quinlan's voice, like the ominous whine of an enraged animal. "What's the word?"

"Give us five minutes to think it over," returned Lee coolly. And, incredulous eyes on Judith's set face, he said gently: "I was on the ranch when the accident happened. He must have driven that heavy car a little too close to the edge of the grade. The bank just naturally gave way."

Judith, her lips tightly compressed, shook her head.

"You didn't find him under the car, did you? And the blow that killed him might have been dealt with some heavy weapon in the hands of a man standing behind him, mightn't it? I know, Bud Lee, I know!"

"How do you know?" he demanded insistently. "You weren't here even."

"No. I was in San Francisco. But the day before I had a letter from father. He expected me home very soon. He was going out, he said in his letter, to look at the road over the mountain. He wrote that the grade was dangerous, especially at the very place where the car went over! He wanted me to know so that in case he could not get the work done on it before I came, I would be careful. On top of that would he go and run his car into such danger as that? Oh, I know!" she cried again, her hands hard upon her rifle.

"I know, I tell you! From the first I suspected. I knew that Chris Quinlan had threatened a dozen times to 'get' father. I knew that soon or late he would try. I wrote Emmet Sawyer, our county sheriff, and told him what I believed, asked him to go to the spot and see what the signs told. A square man is Emmet Sawyer and as sharp as tacks."

"And he told you that you were mistaken?"

"He did nothing of the kind! He reported that the tracks of the car showed that it had kept well away from the bank, that evidently it had gone on, swerving so as to run close to the edge! I know what happened: Father got out to look at the dangerous spot and to put up the sign he had brought with him and that was found in the road. Chris Quinlan had followed him, perhaps to shoot him down from behind, Chris Quinlan's way! Then he saw a safer way. He came up behind poor old dad and struck him on the head with something, rifle-barrel or revolver. He started the car up and let it run over the bank. He—"

She broke off then. Bud Lee felt that he knew what she would say if she could bring herself to go on; that she would tell how crooked Chris Quinlan had thrown the unconscious man down over the bank to lie, bruised and broken, by the wrecked car.

"You've got to be almighty sure before you make a charge like that," he reminded her. "If Quinlan had done it, why didn't Emmet Sawyer get the deed done on him?"

"Because," she whispered quickly, "a man fooled Sawyer! Yes, and fooled me! Quinlan established an alibi. A man whose word there was no reason to doubt said that Quinlan was with him at the time of the murder. And that man was—Bayne Trevors!"

"Trevors?" muttered Lee. He shook his head. "Trevors is a hard man, Judith. And he's a scoundrel, if you want to know! But frame up a murder deal—plan to murder Luke Sanford—No. I don't believe it!"

"Is he the man to miss a chance that lay at his hand? The main chance for him? The chance to hold a man like Chris Quinlan in the hollow of his hand, to make him do his bidding, to set him just such work as he is doing now? Answer me! Is Bayne Trevors above a deal like that?"

Bud Lee's answer was silence. "And there is one other thing," went on Judith swiftly, "known to no one but Emmet Sawyer, whom I told, and me and Chris Quinlan. In father's letter he told me that a man had paid him some money the day before, and that he was going to drive to Rocky Bend to bank it. That money, several hundred dollars, was never banked. It was not found on his body. Where did it go?"

"Even that doesn't incriminate Quinlan, you know."

"No. The rest is pure guesswork of my part. Guesswork based on what I know. Not enough to hang Chris Quinlan, Bud Lee. But enough to make me sure. He's working at Trevors' game right now. If we can prove that it is Trevors' game it will go to show how worthless his alibi was."

"Well?" called Quinlan, the third time. "What about it? We ain't going to wait all night."

"Tell him," whispered Judith, her hand on Lee's arm, "to come and get it if he wants it! One of us can hold the cabin against the two of them while the other slips out in the dark and rides back to the ranch-house for help. If we're in luck, Bud Lee, we'll corner the bunch of them before daylight!"

"It's the only way," she insisted. "If we gave them the money they'd want Bill Crowdy next. If they got Crowdy away with them into the mountains I am not sure they could not hide until they got him safe in Trevors' hands. Then we'd have the whole fight still to make, sooner or later. It's our one bet, Lee!"

And Bud Lee, seeing no better way ahead for them, blew out the candle, forced Judith to stand close to the rock chimney of the fireplace, took his station near her, and answered Quinlan, saying shortly:

"Come ahead when you're ready. We're waiting."

Quinlan's curse, the crack of his rifle, the flying splinters from the cabin door, came together like one implacable menace.

"And now, Bud Lee," cried Judith quickly, "I don't mind telling you, not seeing the end of the string we are playing, that you are a man to my liking!"

"My hat's off," said Lee, with grave simplicity. "And in any old kind of a fight a man wouldn't want a better partner than I can reach now, putting out my hand. He'd want—just a thoroughbred! And now, little partner, let's give them—fits!"

Crouching in the dark, reserving their own fire while they waited for something more definite than the bark of a rifle to shoot at, their hands met.

It came about, quite as matters often do, that at the three-mile-distant ranch headquarters it was one who knew comparatively little of the ways of this part of the world who was first to suspect that all was not well with Judith Sanford. To Pollock Hampton her failure to appear at dinner was significant.

He learned from Mrs. Simpson that in the afternoon Judith, after a hurried lunch, had taken her rifle and ridden away. Where? Mrs. Simpson did not know.

"Hurried lunch?" said Hampton. "Took her rifle, did she?"

His eyes had grown very serious as he stared down into Mrs. Simpson's concerned face.

Hampton sent to the men's quarters word for Carson and Lee to come to the house.

He strode up and down the office, the frown gathering upon his usually smooth brows. Plainly if something had happened to Judith the present responsibility lay upon his shoulders as next in authority.

"Here I am," announced Carson briefly. "What is it?"

"I am a little worried, Carson," said Hampton, "about Miss Sanford. I'm afraid—"

"Afraid? Afraid of what? You don't think she eloped with your Jap or stole the spoons, do you?" snapped Carson. He had been interrupted at the crucial point in a game of cribbage with Poker Face and the cattle-man's weak spot was cribbage. He glared at Hampton belligerently.

"Where is Lee?" questioned Hampton sharply. "Why didn't he come?"

"Dunno," answered Carson, still without interest. "I ain't seen him. Wasn't in for supper."

"I tell you," cried Hampton, angry at Carson's quiet acceptance of facts which to him were darkly significant, "he, too, was out with his rifle today; I saw him myself. Now he fails to show up! Don't you see what all this points to?"

Carson, who seldom lost his poise, with one-half of his brain still given over to the hand he meant to play with Poker Face, merely sighed and shook his head.

Hampton came swiftly to Carson's side. "They left the Lower End this afternoon and came on here. Then, both armed, they rode away again at four or five o'clock. I tell you, man, something has happened to them."

"Don't believe it," retorted Carson. "Not for one little half-minute, I don't. What's to happen? Huh?"

"You know as well as I do what sort of characters are about. The man who robbed Charlie Miller—who shot at Bud Lee—"

"Whoa!" grinned Carson. "Don't you go and fool yourself. That stick-up gent is a clean hundred miles from here right now and still going real lively. If any other Jasper lent him a hand, why, he's on his way, too. Not stopping to pick flowers. It's the way them kind plays the game."

Carson was so cheerfully certain, so amused at the thought of Bud Lee and Judith Sanford requiring anybody's assistance, so confident concerning the methods of outlaws, that finally Hampton sent him away, half-assured, and went himself to his friends in the living room.

He let half an hour slip by in restless inactivity. For, no matter what Carson might say or these people here do, Judith had not yet come in. Hampton left them and went to his room for a rifle and cartridge-belt. He intended to slip out quietly. Marcella met him in the hall; she had heard his quick steps and guessed that he was going out. Now clearly, though she was frightened, she was delighted with him. He had never thrilled her like this before. She had never guessed that Pollock Hampton could be so stern-faced, so purposeful. She whispered an entreaty that he be careful, then, as he went out, ran back to the others, her eyes shining.

"Pollock is going to see what is the matter," she announced excitedly. Hampton passed swiftly through the courtyard. He saw the light of the bunk-house gleaming brightly. On his way down the knoll he came upon Tommy Burkitt.

"Is it Mr. Hampton?" asked Tommy, coming close in the darkness to peer at him.

"Yes. What is it? Who are you?" "I'm Burkitt, Tommy Burkitt, you know—Bud Lee's helper. I—I am afraid something has happened. Lee hasn't come in yet. They tried to pick him off once already, you know—"

"Neither has Miss Sanford come in," said Hampton quickly, sensing here at last a fear that was fellow to his own. "They rode toward the Upper End. You know the way, Burkitt?"

He moved on toward the corral; Burkitt turned and came with him. "Sure I know the trail," muttered Tommy. "You're going to see what's wrong with 'em? Miss Judy, too? My G—d—"

"Bring out a couple of horses," Hampton commanded crisply. "We've lost time enough already."

"I'll go tell Carson and the boys—" "I have already told Carson. He says it's all nonsense. Leave him alone."

Tommy, boy that he was, asked no further questions, but ran ahead and brought out two horses. In a twinkling he had saddled them and the two riders, each with a rifle across his arm, were hurrying over the mountain trail.

In the blackness which lay along the upper river Hampton gave his horse a free rein and let it follow at Tommy's heels. When, finally, they drew rein under the cliffs at the lake's edge all was silent save for the faint distant booming of the river below them.

"Now which way?" whispered Hampton.

Tommy was shaking his head in uncertainty when suddenly from above there came to them the sharp report of a rifle. Then, like a bundle of firecrackers, a volley of half a dozen staccato shots.

"Listen to that, Burkitt," muttered Hampton. "They're at it now—we're on time—"

Tommy slipped from the saddle wordlessly, came to Hampton's side and tugged gently at his leg, whispering for him to get down. Leaving their horses there, they slipped into the utter darkness of the narrow chasm in the rocks which gave access to the plateau above.

"Now," cautioned Tommy guardedly, as they came to the top, "keep close to me if you don't want to take a header about a thousand feet. Look!" He nudged Hampton and pointed. "There are two horses across yonder; Bud's and Miss Judy's, most likely."

Hampton did not see them, did not seek to see them. Something new, vital, big, had swept suddenly into his life. He was at grips first-hand with unmasked, pulsing forces. "They're at it now!" he whispered to Burkitt. Men—yes, and a girl—were shooting, not at just wooden and paper targets, but at other men! At men who shot back, and shot to kill.

"Listen," said Burkitt. "Somebody's in the old cabin; somebody's outside. Which is which? We got to be awful careful."

They began a slow, cautious approach, slipping from bush to bush, from tree to tree, standing motionless now and then to frown into the folds of the night's curtains. Abruptly the firing ceased. They made out vaguely the two forms of the attackers, having located them a moment ago by the spurting flames from their guns. Then, "Got enough in there?" came the snarling voice of Quinlan. "If you haven't, I'm going to burn you out and be d—d to you!"

He got an answer he little expected. For Hampton, running out into the open, now that he knew that Bud and Judith must be in the cabin, was firing as he came. Burkitt's rifle spoke with his.

"Run for it, Shorty!" yelled Quinlan. "You know where. We're up against the Blue Lake boys."

"Bud!" shouted Tommy. "Oh, Bud!"

"In the cabin," came Bud's ringing answer. "Give 'em h—l, Tommy! Coming!"

With his words came the sound of the door snapping back against the wall, the reports of Tommy's rifle and Hampton's pumping hot lead after two racing forms.

"They'll get away!" shouted Hampton, a sudden red rage upon him. "Curse it! It's too dark—"

Then Tommy gave over shooting and yelled to Lee to hold his fire. For instead of two there were three flying forms, three fast-racing, blurring, shadowy shapes merging with the night. Pollock Hampton, his rifle clubbed in his hand, was running with a college sprinter's speed after Quinlan and Shorty, calling breathlessly: "Look out, they'll get away!"

"Hampton, come back!" shouted Lee, running after him.

But Hampton was gaining on the heavy-set Shorty and had no thought of coming back. Nor a thought of anything in all the wide world just then but overtaking the flying figure in front of him. Shorty stumbled over a fallen log and rose, cursing and calling:

"Chris! Lend a hand."

That little chance of an uprooted tree saved Hampton's life that night. Shorty, falling, had dropped his gun and hurt his knee. For a moment he groped wildly for the lost rifle, then ran off without it. Hampton cleared the log and, with a yell rather befitting a victorious savage than the young man whom Mrs. Langworthy hoped to call her son, threw his long arms about Shorty's neck.

"I got him!" shouted Hampton. "By glory!"

Shorty drove a big brutal fist smashing into his captor's face. But Hampton merely lowered his head, hiding it against Shorty's heaving shoulders, and tightened his grip. Shorty struggled to his feet, shaking at him, tearing at him, driving one fist after the other into Hampton's body. But, with a grimness of purpose as new to him as was the whole of tonight's adventure, Hampton held on.

Judith and Lee and Burkitt came to them as they were falling again. Now suddenly, with other hard hands upon him, Shorty relaxed, and Hampton, his face bloody, his body sore, sank back. He had done a mad thing—but triumph lay in that he had done it.

"A man never can tell," muttered Bud Lee, with less thought of the captive than of the captor—"never can tell."

"I am thinking," said Judith wonderingly, "that I never quite did you justice, Pollock Hampton!"

LETTER TO PARENTS

To the parents of the children in the Antioch grade school.

This is an urgent invitation to you.

The Parent-Teacher association of the Antioch grade school will hold its second monthly meeting at the grade school at 7:45 p. m., Monday, November 3rd. The parents and teachers and all who are interested in the objects of this organization are eligible to membership.

A Parent Teacher association offers to parents an opportunity to meet the teachers to whom a large proportion of their children's time is entrusted.

It is an avenue through which they may secure the educational methods and equipment they desire, and create the school atmosphere with which they desire to surround their children's school day.

A Parent Teacher association offers to teachers an assurance that the parents are "behind" them in their efforts to improve the school as much as possible. It gives them an opportunity to meet the parents of their pupils so that they may judge them more fairly and sympathetically and give frank and fair criticism of the children's individual and collective needs.

Anything that affects your child affects the most vital interest in you and nothing except the child's home life is more important to his welfare than his school.

You are cordially urged to attend this meeting and to become members.

May Woodhead,

Chairman of the Program Committee.

Throughout the story, Woodhull is set on "getting" Banion. After a series of thrilling events, he encounters Banion in California where the latter has made a fortune in the gold fields. Woodhull is about to kill him from ambush when Jackson, an old scout, sees Woodhull and kills him. Banion is informed that he has been cleared of certain charges, made against him by Woodhull and that Molly is waiting for him in her frontier home in Oregon. The picture closes with the reunion at the Oregon homestead.

The work of Mr. Kerrigan is most commendable. Miss Wilson proved unusually charming. The production is as magnificent as it is colossal.

This picture can be seen at the Antioch theatre Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Nov. 1, 2, and 3.

James Cruze Production

"THE COVERED WAGON"

With Lois Wilson, J. Warren Kerrigan and all-star cast

JUST IMAGINE THIS—

You'll see hundreds of men, women, children, horses, oxen—a two-mile wagon train of pioneer days—fleeing for their lives from a raging fire that laid waste nine square miles of prairie.

You'll see a thousand real, yelling, painted Indians riding madly to attack in their famous "circle of death" formation.

You'll see a buffalo hunt with the world's only remaining herd of buffalo. You'll see the wagon train ford a turbulent mile-wide torrent.

You'll see the whole spectacular heart-drama of the perilous, glorious days of '49. The story of a man's love and sacrifice for a beautiful girl in the most amazing settings ever photographed.

Every man, woman and child should see this picture of America in the making.

Wednesday, Nov. 5th

To the Ladies

James Cruze, the producer who created "The Covered Wagon," "Hollywood" and "Ruggles of Red Gap," comes to the front with "To the Ladies," another production which doubtless will duplicate the success achieved by its predecessors.

"To the Ladies" is a picture that will exert a powerful appeal not only upon the women who constitute by far the largest percentage of the motion picture theatregoers of the country, but for the men as well. Every woman who sees this picture will admire it because its story gives the ladies due credit for personal and mental qualities which many another story either has derided or denied them altogether. "To the Ladies" is more than a domestic story—it is the life story of millions of average Americans that make up the army of men and women employed in, offices stores and factories—salaried folk, their wives and families.

The story of "To the Ladies" is interpreted by a stellar cast of players headed by Edward Horton of "Ruggles of Red Gap" fame, Theodore Roberts, the grand old man of the movies, Helen Jerome Eddy, widely known as the "Madonna of the Screen" and Louise Dresser, one of the most popular screen artists in the country. With such a personnel of favorites, "To the Ladies" would score with any audience, but independent of this fact, the production is packed with exquisite humor, and there are thrills galore.
